MISS HARRISON'S REVENGE.

The Story of Julian Erskine's Crime and its Consequences.

Annie Harrison was twenty-seven, and certainly the handsomest young lady in Louisville. Her figure was tall and well developed, her hair was golden, her eyes were blue, and her complexion was fair. She was a member of the best society, and her husband, Mr. Harrison, was a wealthy merchant.

Her grace of manner was wonderful, and even the women, who envied her and looked upon her with a mixture of admiration and jealousy, were forced to acknowledge her superiority.

She was a first-class beauty, and her husband, Mr. Harrison, was a wealthy merchant. He was a member of the best society, and his wife, Mrs. Harrison, was a member of the best society.
